Dingus—UPI

T. Lebanon, Oct. 2 — It by the Syrian Army President Gamal Abdel Nasser has blown with force on the shifting sands of the Middle East.

It is too soon to tell what Nasser's reputation as the Arab world has a severe blow. The entire Middle East may now be in the most severe since 1958 when the army toppled his monarch Jordan and Lebanon and British and American to protect themselves internal and external since the union of Egypt into the UAR in February 1958, diplomatic obstacles the Middle East have sidetracked its eventual collapse expected it would go with such suddenness last week.

businessmen were anxious Nasser's steady drive a socialist economy was widespread irrita tion over Syria's decline from a powerful, independent country to the status of a province ruled from Cairo.

Civilians and military men were agitated at what they termed were police state tactics by the UAR.

The crowning blow appeared to be the resignation last week of Abdel Hamid Seraj, former Syrian strongman, as a UAR Vice President, apparently because he felt he had been given a mere figurehead post with no real power.

It now is clear that Seraj did not have anything to do with the actual revolt—he never was a popular figure in Syria—but that his resignation served as the catalyst to touch it off. Damascus radio announced today he had been arrested.

The composition of the new Syrian cabinet of Premier Mazin Al-Kuburzi put the rebel government firmly to the right of the political center.

The United States and Britain are taking a cautious wait-and-see approach. They are not anxious to destroy recently improved relations with Nasser and possibly drive him closer to the Soviet camp.

Former Cougar Ken Hunt With World Series team

en Morrison
erse Sports Writer

A former BYU athlete could very easily see action in 1961 World Series which gets underway Wednesday at Joe Stadium in New York.

KEN HUNT of Ogden, who played on Cougar freshmen football and baseball teams in 1957-58, was one of the Cougars' strongest pitchers early this season. Hunt signed a contract with the Reds in 1958 for a bonus estimated near $35,000.

Many BYU fans probably best remember Hunt as the "55" forward who, along with Bob Skousen, showed signs of giving the Cougar varsity basketball squad one of its most formidable front line combinations in many Hunt was an outstanding rebounder, a better than average scorer, and a good ball handler. The BYU coaching staff felt he had great potential. But Hunt is persuaded that he had a better future in professional baseball. So far he has gone a long way toward proving it.

He started the 1961 season with Indianapolis of the American Association after a highly successful season in the lower minor league last year. In pre-season games, he impressed the Red brass that they decided to give him at the big league.

Before the season was half over he had won eight and three to rank third in that category in the National League. Later his record stood at 8-1. Then the roof fell. Probably the most talked about rookie of the year.

LIKE MANY OTHER rookie pitchers, Hunt was unable to contain the more experienced major league hitters initially. Although at times he seemed to be returning to previous form, he lost six games in a row and was let out of his position as a starting pitcher.

One of these six losses was a five-hitter against Milwaukee. But that wasn't good enough as the Braves' or Burdette countered with a two-hitter to add another victory to his fabulous record.

Hunt's record now stands at 9-10. His last defeat came at the hands of the last place Philadelphia Phillies. It was the second time the Phillies had beaten the Reds this year. Hunt hasn't had a starting assignment since then.

WHETHER OR NOT Hunt's name will go down in ball history as one of a select few rookie pitchers to perform in a World Series remains to be seen. But even if he doesn't play another inning this season, he is still young and has plenty of years ahead to improve. We think so.

Speaking of rookies, another one by the name of Ken, and baseman Ken Hubbs of the Chicago Cubs hit a home and a triple in five times at bat last week in aiding the Cubs to beat St. Louis 5-2.

HUBBS IS THE 19-year-old brother of Keith Hubbs, BYU halfback. The younger Hubbs was a high school American quarterback in California a couple of years ago. He was sought after by BYU and numerous other schools throughout the nation for both his football and baseball skills.

Like Ken Hunt though, he set his sights on major league baseball, and made it.

es, Ags win, Wyoming ties

The Skyline conference's "big game" of Utah, Utah State and Wyoming resumed workouts after their dispersal or tying of America's top-rated ball teams.

BAC RAY Nagel's Ute up-and-high-touted University of Oregon, 24-6, after spotting a first-quarter TD on their field.

Spokane, the USU Aggies tied to take their third straight win, and club Washington, 24-14. They will meet conference's other super-team, Wyoming, at mile this week.

COE BOYS had to settle for a 66 tie with the favored Eight conference Kansas Jayvics in Lawrence.

Utahma maimed the University of New Mexico, 40-8. Colorado State lost to Arizona State, and BYU dropped a 30-41 in North Texas State in skyline team action.

Women's pentathlon championship Won by BYU Freshman Pat Daniels

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI)—BYU freshman Pat Daniels rolled up 4,322 points to win the National AAU Women's Pentathlon championship at Colorado State University Saturday.

Miss Daniels, the 1960 runner-up, beat out defending champion JoAnn Terry of Tennessee State University, who has 4,178 points, although Miss Terry won two of the five events to Miss Daniel's one individual victory.

DARLENE Everhart of Kansas City, Mo., scored 3,930 points to place third in the field of 14. Leontyne Reif, Chicago, scored 3,659 for fourth, and Eddie Robinson, Chicago, was fifth with 3,593.

Miss Daniels' total was 17 points short of the record 5,140 points set by Miss Terry in 1960.

Miss Daniels won the 200-meter run in 23.3 seconds. Miss Terry placed first in the 80-meter hurdles, with a time of 1:17, and the broad jump with a distance of 17 feet, 10 inches.

DELIA BURCHFIELD won the shotput with a heave of 40 feet, 5 1/2 inches. Miss Everhart won the other event, the high jump with a leap of 5-3.

Miss Terry and Miss Daniels were members of the U. S. Olympic team in 1960.

Great offensive punch fails to give Cats win

BYU's Cougars will probably score a lot of their time studying the art of defense this week as they prepare for their Saturday meeting with the Montana Grizzlies.

THE DEFENSIVE department was one of the few weak spots in the Cougar squad, which went down to its second defeat in the Lone Star State, losing to North Texas State, 41-30.

But the Cats looked good, even in their second loss to Coach Odus Mitchell's squad who had to wait until the last quarter to take the game away from the hungry Cats.

LAST WEEK the Cougars were massacred by West Texas State and a fleet road-running back by the name of "Beep-Beep" Pete Pedro who scored three touchdowns in helping track up a 55-8 score.

On Saturday another half-back, senior Chuck Holloway, galloped for three touchdowns before being carried from the field after his final TD kick attempt.

Holloway averaged 7.4 yards in gaining 91 of North Texas' 370 yards. Holloway was helped by Billy Joe Christie and full-back Arthur Perkins who ran over the Cat defense in the last half.

Earlier in the game the Cats had run to a 24-15 halftime lead.

In spite of the fact that North Texas went ahead five minutes after the kickoff on Holloway's pass interception.

GENE FRANTZ opened the scoring up for the Pumas when he carried over a 19-yard Eldon Fortie pass. Fortie's run put BYU ahead.

Senior Paul Allen then started what proved to be one of the best individual offensive showings for BYU this year. The Pleasant Grove wingback took a 47-yard pass from Fortie on the final play of the second period and went over. Gordon Blackham's catch made it 16-7.

Allen's other points which totaled 29, came from a sensational 92-yard kickoff return, and an 80-yard pass on the final play of the game. Allen also got two points on a conversion pass.

Besides Holloway's and Christie's touchdowns, Bobby Smith, a flashy sophomore, and Bill Littlepage crashed across in the last quarter to put the Eagles out front 28-24.

STATISTIC wise, the Cats played one of their most impressive games this year in the air and on the ground.

And most of all, BYU never fumbled once before the 5,000 fans at Fouts Stadium. In fact, they even recovered all four of North Texas' miscues.

Cougar for Cougar days

by George Ridd
Universe Photographer

I was hurrying on my way to a physics class when as I was rounding a corner an attractive cougar ran into me with her bicycle.

She apologetically explained that she was on her way to a Greek class and admitted that she wasn't paying too much attention to the traffic.

As I helped her right her bicycle and retrieve her books, we began a conversation which finally led to traditions and scheduled events on the BYU Campus.

FIRST SHE, by the way, her name was Sandie, wanted to know all about the football season. I told her of the games scheduled for the remainder of the season and I reminded her to participate in the school songs and yell. I explained that this added to the spirit of the game and everyone would enjoy the game more if they participated actively.

Being as she was a freshman, she was interested in the Homecoming activities that take place during Homecoming week. We talked of the parade, game, election, dances, and homecoming game. Yes, Oct. 30 to Nov. 4 will surely be an action-packed week!

Y-DAY ALSO entered the conversation. She was intensely interested in this event, but when I told her that it was a day of work, she temporarily lost interest until I told her of the advantages. These advantages included free lunch, dance, and other such activities.

Some of us are guilty of going rabbit hunting and such on Y-Day instead of doing our share of work. She said that she would encourage all of her friends to participate on Y-Day.

WE WERE BOTH intensely interested in Cougar Days, and by putting our knowledge together, we finally made a complete list of all that was going to take place during the week end.

On Friday the events will include a bonfire rally, inspirational talk, and lighting of the Y. In the fieldhouse there will be a dance and carnival and on the basquetball court a poll of all musicians will be held. Also on the playing floor will be group singing competition.

STADIUM events will commence at 1 p.m. on Saturday. Cougar Days will be highlighted with a live cougar, which will be a new mascot for BYU. That is, if they catch him!

All of these events should make an interesting life on campus. After we were through talking, we both realized almost simultaneously that we had missed our classes. Oh well, I don't like physics anyway! Sandie didn't appear too enthusiastic about Greek either.

Two fellows hailing from Orington and Campington, England will find themselves in a steaming pot of trouble in the assembly slated for students living off-campus Monday. The assembly, which will be held in Smith Fieldhouse at 7 p.m., will depict the colorful life of Village Campingo, Africa. Liz Toronto wrote the script for this AWS, AMS-sponsored show.

Coeds to hear culture advice

Culture's importance, how it is obtained and its costs, will be the concern of coeds Thursday, at the newly inaugurated Culture Night sponsored by AWS. This heels and hose affair will begin at 8 p.m. in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

Annette Baschoff, chairman, invites all girls to attend as campus coeds have been criticized for their lack of culture. The program will feature the viewpoints of both a masculine and a feminine director of a Salt Lake modeling school.

At the meeting, the Junior AWS Council, composed of 15 freshman girls, selected from more than 300 applicants, will be presented.
